

Kahului Railroad Co. Assists in Securing Savings of Water

Much improvement has been seen in the water supply available for upper Wailuku owing to the cooperation being given the water department by the Kahului Railroad in conserving the supply through the observance of hours for irrigation. The company sent out the following notice to employees and tenants:

KAHULUI RAILROAD COMPANY Notice

Attached hereto is notice sent out by the Superintendent of the Wailuku-Kahului Waters Works.

In connection with the above, would state that C. D. Lufkin, George Wright, Jr. and the undersigned, representing the Maui Chamber of Commerce, appeared before the Board of Supervisors at their regular meeting held at Wailuku, Friday the 12th inst. The matter of water supply for Wailuku and Kahului was given careful consideration and the Board of Supervisors assured us that as soon as the eight inch pipe, now due to be delivered on Maui, is installed, a supply of water amounting to about 1,200,000 gallons per twenty-four hours will become available which will be ample to supply all requirements.

It behooves us all therefore, to live strictly up to the notice sent out by the Superintendent of the Water Works until the eight inch pipe line is installed or until the attached notice is modified or canceled.

I suggest that each of you avail yourself of every occasion to mention to each County officer and more particularly the Supervisors, the inconvenience occasioned you due to the lack of water.

WM. WALSH,
Superintendent.

AUTO TOP SHOP'S NOVELTY

F. Hohlweg, proprietor of the Auto Top Shop, Main street, Wailuku, is inaugurating a "free top service", that is, he is advertising that without cost he will dress auto tops made by the Auto Top Shop. His argument is that he doesn't want to see a top spoiled by the application of some dressing preparation that may ruin it. Hence Hohlweg's plan to invite owners of tops made at his place to come to him when their tops (auto) need dressing. He supplies the dressing and applies it, considering that he is doing himself a favor as well as benefiting the top owner.

Owners of tops not made by the Auto Top Shop are invited to consult Mr. Hohlweg about dressing. He believes he can save them trouble and expense, helping them to avoid injurious treatment of their auto tops.

WATER SHORTAGE

Kahului, Maui, T. H.,
Aug. 20, 1921.

Editor Maui News:
Dear Sir:—There have been a great many kicks over the unsatisfactory and inadequate water supply for Wailuku and Kahului; also a few suggestions toward remedying same—the main suggestion being a larger pipe line.

In most engineering undertakings the laws of nature, physics, etc., are given first consideration, but, as regards the water system of Wailuku and Kahului, they seem to have been entirely forgotten. As I understand it, Wailuku and Kahului are supplied by the same main and this main would be sufficient for Wailuku were it not for Kahului. Now Kahului is several hundred feet nearer sea level than Wailuku—consequently, when Kahului residents, governed by their working hours, turn on their faucets in unison, the water in a long unbroken main follows the law of gravity and flows out at the lowest opening not only decreasing Wailuku's supply but also creating a suction in the Wailuku section which has a tendency to suck back the water from Wailuku's tributary mains. A larger pipe line would overcome this difficulty only as long as its capacity exceeded the supply needed by both Wailuku and Kahului and would also mean the additional expense of reconnecting Wailuku's tributary piping system.

Would it not seem wiser to put in a separate pipe line to supply Kahului, connecting same up with the present Kahului main below Wailuku, and plug the lower end of Wailuku's pipe line which now supplies Kahului as well? Both Wailuku and Kahului would then have the same source of supply; neither would be sucking water from the other's mains; it would save money; the money saved could be used toward increasing the water supply at the source; and there would be no necessity of constructing a new reservoir in the sand hills—more money saved.

Yours very truly,
J. R. PARIS.

Portuguese Wish They Were Back in Hawaii

Many who left the Islands, including Portuguese in large numbers, hoping to secure more profitable and congenial employment in California, are regretful and wish themselves back in their old homes and at their old employment, reports Joaquin Vincent of Kealahou school who returned home last week after a motor trip up and down the length of California. He has asked that the message go out to the young Portuguese of the Islands that they are much better off here than they would be on the mainland.

"There may be less unemployment in California than a short time since as some assert," he says, "but it is bad enough as it is. Wherever I went I saw it. I was told that in Los Angeles there was an army of 100,000 seeking work, two fifths of the population of our Islands. At canneries I saw crowds standing outside of barred gates seeking to apply for positions, and kept out from even making application."

Mr. Vincent says numbers of the Porto Ricans would come back to the Islands if they were not too proud to do so.

Ethelda Bleibtry broke the record for the woman's 880 at Lake Hopatcong, New Jersey, negotiating the distance in 14:37.3 and winning the national championship title.
